

Conduent Showcases Advanced Technology for Legal Operations at 2022 CLOC Exhibit

May 6, 2022

Law firms and in-house legal departments automating invoice review improve speed, accuracy, compliance and reduce external spend

FLORHAM PARK, N.J., May 06, 2022 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- With demand increasing for greater efficiency in business processes, Conduent Incorporateds (Nasdaq: CNDT) analytics experts predict legal and risk leaders at corporations and law firms will face two operational challenges this year:

- Strengthening resiliency. Teams need automation and insights to balance the new demands of work from home, improve productivity, support more strategic work, and enhance collaboration.
- Tech solutions reaching across the organization. Technology adopted by legal departments must also connect to key internal business partners such as procurement, risk, finance, and accounting to create digital records accessible throughout a company. The technology must also capture complex data, host data securely, and organize the data for easy search and retrieval.

The added pressure for legal functions to be more productive, nimble, and lean has fueled demand for data and analytics tools that allow legal teams to focus on what they do best, while making better use of time and financial resources.

Advanced Analytics Solutions Showcased at 2022 CLOC Exhibit

Conduent will showcase its legal spend and contract analytics tools at CLOC Global Institute in Las Vegas from May 9 to May 12. Conduent's Legal Invoice Analytics solution delivers automated business processes including validating payment for invoices consisting of thousands of line items for legal and risk teams using hybrid and remote roles.

"Conduent is helping legal and risk management leaders adapt to remote and hybrid work models by providing technology that meets the needs of different working models and increases speed and business intelligence," said Sanjay Manocha, Senior Director for Legal and Compliance Solutions at Conduent. "Our expertise is providing custom technology solutions to help our clients truly scale the understanding of their data to enhance the services they provide."

With Conduent's single, searchable database of all contracts, firms gain insight into contract portfolios to identify and assess risks and proactively resolve issues. The Contract Analytics solution reaches across legal, procurement, finance and accounting turning all aspects of a contract into easily accessible, searchable, and reportable data to drive automation for business and risk leaders. Legal teams can resolve compliance issues and optimize contract renegotiations while procurement teams can reduce contract leakage and improve supplier performance. Finance and accounting departments can reduce revenue and margin leakage by ensuring terms are being met all by integrating contracts into a single analytics solution.
