Award based on CEO ratings among Conduent female associates

FLORHAM PARK, N.J., Aug. 02, 2022 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Conduent Incorporated (Nasdaq: CNDT), a business process services and solutions company, today announced that President and CEO Cliff Skelton has been recognized by Comparably on its 2022 list of Best CEOs for Women.

Comparably's Best CEOs for Women 2022 is determined by anonymous feedback from women employees about their CEOs over the past 12 months. Derived from 15 million ratings across 70,000 companies, Conduent is ranked among the Top 75 CEOs of large companies with more than 500 employees.

"We are very proud to be recognized for the inclusive culture we are building at Conduent," said Walter Frye, Global Head, D&I and Corporate Responsibility. "The commitment and engagement of our CEO and leadership team have been key factors in our progress to date and this recognition from Comparably."

"At Conduent, we are building an employee experience where every associate feels valued for being themselves, that they can grow and thrive and they can make a difference every day," said Tracy Yelencsics, Chief Marketing Officer and Executive Sponsor of Conduent Women's Impact Network. "One way we support that is through encouraging participation in our eight employee impact groups. With the Conduent Women's Impact Network (WIN), we have a forum to address challenges that are specific to women and advance our journey to make Conduent a great place to work for all."

Conduent's WIN has grown to nearly 2,000 members and hosts a robust calendar of activities bringing together women for professional development and growth, including a formal mentoring program. Its members have an opportunity to network, learn and grow by participating in discussions, events, and programs spanning a range of topics – from healthcare to inclusive leadership to addressing workplace bias.

"The CEOs on the 2022 list have nurtured company cultures that embrace diversity and inclusion, as shown by the feedback from their female employees," said Comparably CEO Jason Nazar. "Chief executives like Cliff Skelton from Conduent create environments that support and encourage women, and we hope other leaders will be motivated to do the same within their own organizations."

This recognition is in addition to several other culture awards. In 2021, Conduent was recognized as a Best Company for Women and Diversity by Comparably.
